

A descending wedge from a 4-hour to a daily graph

What kind of even more complex structure we are having today! Nevertheless, such a large wedge on a daily graph normally dictates also a more consistent execution than the one on a younger timeframe. The "sweet zone" goal of ours will be a little higher now - 35.5K - with the same scenario in place, let us believe. Such "beating about the bush", you certainly know, happens and not on a rare basis. Enjoy and get more experience from whatever market you have here and now.