

A nice present to you over the week-end!

Have a look at my graph & have a couple of drinks perhaps for that idea. It appeared only an hour ago with the descending wedge upper border painting via the latest local high. We have now that wedge target which would be the 3rd point on the correction channel lower border. Simultaneously we will be experiencing a false break of a 37K strong support. The price is supposed to touch the lower border of the channel at around 35K. So you will feel free there to put in your buy-stop orders with targets above the channel upper border - about 48K. That rise is likely to be followed by a strong bearish counter attack. Enjoy your week-end!