

A small copy of the broadening wedge scenario has been played out, the large wedge one - is likely to follow

So you have probably earned money on price weakness above 21900, as per the previous recommendation. Now the price is likely to enter the large wedge, bounce from approximately 12.5K up to the upper border and "keep the ball rolling" down to ZERO level. One can't help admitting that such a move is even more than possible with the current market configuration, as we wrote before. There might be, of course, a "stop" or two down along that exciting way.